

COPIES AVAILABLE FROM THE PRESS OFFICE

PRIME MINISTER

FOR PRESS

17 APRIL 1978

DEATH OF ARCHBISHOP CAHILL

Archbishop Cahill spent his life in the service of his Church, and its people.

A priest for forty-three years, he worked tirelessly for his parishioners, particularly in the field of Social Welfare.

Education and opportunity for the young, and care for the aged and infirm were his special concern.

I join with the many thousands of Australians who mourn his passing.
