

JEWISH NEW YEAR

This date in the Jewish Calendar is an occasion for examination of the year gone and of preparation for the year to come; an occasion for assessing one's personal contribution not only to the good of the nation to which we all so proudly belong, but to the welfare of one's fellows. The Jewish people in Australia have a proud record of such service to which I am certain they will add significantly in the days ahead.

I am grateful for the opportunity to send greetings to the Australian Jewish communities as they mark their New Year.
