28 NOVEMBER 1985

The Prime Minister and the Treasurer today had valuable discussions with representatives of the Business Council of Australia on aspects of the Government's tax package of particular interest to business.

They were apprised of the details of changes announced today by the Government on the Imputation System and other aspects of the September package.

It was agreed that further consultations will be held in February to discuss details of the operation of some of the measures.

The Business Council has undertaken to provide the Government with a full list of the matters which it would like discussed.
